WOODCOCK GUNNING

As the England players prepared for their flight out to the World Cup Finals, Arsenal secretary Ken Friar slipped into their Hertfordshire headquarters and completed the deal which makes Tony Woodcock an Arsenal player . . . and on the ball as usual, 'Match Weekly' was there when it happened. Anthony Hawkswell spoke to the former Cologne sharp-shooter . . .

Tony Woodcock in high-flying action for England against Switzerland at Wembley: "It was great to go to Spain with my future decided."

There's no mistaking 'Match' reader Danny McCrorey when he drives down the street in his home town of Wellington, New Zealand.

His car's a rolling advertisement for the World Cup and the 'Kiwi' team in particular.

The car (pictured left) is covered in World Cup symbols and slogans and has been signed by the entire New Zealand squad.

Says Danny: "I wanted to show my support for the team and knowing that I wouldn't be able to make it to Spain I thought of this idea."

"As an exiled Scot and keen soccer fan I am overjoyed that at last our round ball game is coming into its own in this rugby country."

"My only regret is that Scotland were paired in the same opening group as New Zealand."

Bond stays

MANCHESTER City manager John Bond has rejected an offer to manage Portuguese giants Benfica.

"I want to stay in Manchester and finish the job I started 19 months ago to make City successful," he says.

His City predecessor, Malcolm Allison, is in Portugal where he has guided Sporting Lisbon to the Championship.

Cropley quits

FORMER Scotland international Alex Cropley has been forced to call it a day.

The 31-year-old midfield player has been with Third Division Portsmouth since last September.

Alex, capped twice by Scotland ten years ago, was twice involved in £100,000 transfers, from Hibernian to Arsenal and then to Aston Villa.

Wolves fight to keep Hibbitt

WOLVES will fight any moves to lure Kenny Hibbitt away from Molineux.

Says manager Ian Greaves: "Everyone knows just how highly I rate Kenny. I made him skipper as soon as I took over as manager and I think he will be a big asset to the club in our bid to regain First Division status."

Kuwait signing

ENGLAND youth team manager John Cartwright is to take up a two-year contract with Kuwait after the World Cup Finals.

Hill to the rescue

COVENTRY boss Jimmy Hill has announced budget cuts which will enable the Midlands club to survive on gates of 14,000. The Highfield Road playing staff has also been slashed.

Tough for Terry

FORMER England defender Terry Cooper has returned to Bristol to manage City... just six months after being sacked as boss of arch rivals Rovers.

Since leaving Eastville, the ex-Leeds favourite has been playing for Third Division Doncaster.

But now the 37-year-old, who broke his leg on his League debut for City, is back to try and revive the club's flagging fortunes.

They have slipped from the First to the Fourth Division in successive seasons, and earlier this season they almost went out of business.

"It could not be much harder, but no one offered me an easier job," says Terry.

Just the tonic for Paisley

WHEN Liverpool boss Bob Paisley was named Bell's Manager of the Year it was for a record fifth time.

He will be presented with the Bell's Scotch Whisky Cup at Liverpool's first home match of next season.

Asked for his success formula as Liverpool clinched their 13th title victory, Paisley quipped: "A drop of Bell's every month... and a big one at the end of the year."

The divisional managers of the season were Luton's David Pleat (Division Two), Burnley's Brian Miller (Division Three) and Sheffield United's Ian Porterfield (Division Four).

Robson shocker

BRYAN 'Pop' Robson, whose 18 goals helped Carlisle achieve promotion from the Third Division last season, has quit the club.

The former Sunderland and West Ham striker, who reached 250 League goals this season, was expected to get the manager's job at Brunton Park on Bob Stokoe's retirement.

But the board of directors decided against appointing 'Pop'. "I have decided not to carry on, although I am not leaving just because the board have decided not to make me manager," he says.

"It is more to do with the general situation."

Merseyside milestone

FOR the first time in twenty years, a transfer has gone ahead between Merseyside rivals Liverpool and Everton.

It involved Liverpool's 23-year-old reserve midfield player Kevin Sheedy who has moved across the city to enhance his First Division prospects.

Kevin made just one full League appearance for Liverpool following his transfer from home town club Hereford.

Liverpool value him at £200,000, but Everton want the fee decided by a tribunal.

The last transfer between the clubs occurred in 1962 when winger Johnny Morrissey also left Anfield for Goodison.

BOSS IN BOOTS?

ONLY one of the 24 national team bosses currently battling it out in Spain has never been a top class footballer.

He is Chile coach Luis Santibanez (44) who never played the game professionally, but rose to the top of the tree thanks to management success with clubs all over Chile.

Record breaker released

GOALKEEPER Tommy Hughes, who has played in a club record 240 League games for Hereford United, has been released by the Fourth Division side.

Since moving to Hereford from Aston Villa for £10,000 in 1973, the 34-year-old Scot has made over 300 first team appearances.

He was ruled out for most of last season with an elbow injury.

Hereford, who have financial problems, have also released striker Frank McGrellis, and central defenders Richie Overson and Stuart Cornes.

Rioch turns to Torquay

FORMER Scotland star Bruce Rioch, who was their captain in the 1978 World Cup Finals, has been appointed player-manager of Fourth Division Torquay.

The ex-Derby and Aston Villa player takes over from Frank O'Farrell who becomes general manager.

Rioch played with Torquay last season as player-coach after returning to the Football League from America.

SECRET FEARS

BEING named in England's 22 for Spain finally dispelled my secret worry.

The fear that I'd miss the World Cup Finals through injury has been in the back of my mind for some time.

I picked up the knee injury in November during England's last and vital World Cup qualifier against Hungary.

And it flared up again at the end of last season during a testimonial match at Aston Villa when I had to go off after just 20 minutes because my knee started to swell up.

I thought then that it was going to spell trouble for me and I began to wonder whether it would stand up to the bone-hard Spanish pitches and being subjected to playing two matches a week — which it will have to if England qualify for the later stages.

But since I've been with the England party, I've been taking a different drug and the swelling has gone down. Touch wood, it hasn't worried me since.

So I was very relieved when Ron Greenwood told me that I was in his Spanish party — it was a weight off my shoulders.

I know that the only cure for the knee is a good rest. It has never had a chance to recover from the initial knock against Hungary.

It has meant that I've sometimes had to think before moving and that's never good for a footballer. He should be able to move instinctively.

By the time you read this, England will have probably played their Group Four opener against France and will be looking forward to Sunday's tough game against Czechoslovakia.

Whatever the result against France, there's no doubt that our preparation for the World Cup Finals was just right and we arrived in Bilbao in the perfect frame of mind.

We couldn't have asked for a better run-up to the tournament. If we'd have lost a couple of our warm-up games, it would have put doubts in our minds. As it is, we arrived with confidence high.

To win our games against Holland, Scotland and Finland was obviously important, but I was also happy with the style in which we won.

I was particularly pleased with our 2-0 win over Holland. The Dutch are still a force to be reckoned with.

It was that game which booked Arsenal's Graham Rix his flight to the Finals.

He came on in the second half for Alan Devonshire of West Ham and played his way to Spain with a fine performance.

Paul Mariner also enjoyed a great run-up to the Finals with four goals from those three games. As well as being a very good player, Paul is also a smashing member of the squad.

He's the kind of person that really gets the team spirit going within the party. He's always the first to have a laugh and a joke.

Benefits

It's the first time that the England party have spent a long time together and we're really reaping the benefits.

You can't build up a team spirit without actually staying in the same hotel and getting to know each other. We don't get as much time as the Brazils of this world so every moment we do get is precious.

Talking of Brazil, they are my tip to win the trophy. Man for man, they must have the most skillful side in the world and it's difficult to see anyone beating them.

When they played us last year at Wembley, they showed their class. I've always admired their midfielder, Zico. He's a smashing player.

He's their pocket battleship in the middle of the park. He's got bags of class and can win a game by himself — either by scoring or by making a perfect pass.

The West Germans are going to be as difficult as ever. They are always so well organised and their skipper Karl-Heinz Rummenigge could turn out to be one of the stars of the tournament.

Host country Spain may not have had the best preparation for the tournament, but they'll still be a big danger. Playing in front of their own partisan fans is bound to lift them.

Yugoslavia are my tip as the surprise team of the tournament. They are coached by the very shrewd Miljan Miljanic and are technically a very good side.

Inconsistency

But their problem is inconsistency. Miljan says that they can beat anyone, but they can also end up being beaten by anyone.

As I've said before, we play Czechoslovakia on Sunday and I must be honest and admit I don't know that much about them.

We played them back in November 1978 at Wembley and I scored the only goal of the game, but conditions will be much different this time round because I remember it was a cold, frosty night in London.

I regard the Czechs as the toughest team in our group because they've got a lot of skill. One player we'll have to watch closely is their captain and key striker Zdenek Nehoda. He's got a reputation as a world class player.

Just before I sign off, let me say how delighted I was to hear that my Manchester United club-mate Norman Whiteside was included in Northern Ireland's 22 for Spain.

The decision didn't surprise anyone at Old Trafford. As soon as we knew he was in the squad of 40, it was clear that he'd be making the trip.

Norman is only 17, but don't get the impression that he will be overawed by the occasion. There's a mature head on those young shoulders and he'll benefit from rubbing shoulders with the best in the world.

FOOTBALL went goal crazy last season with the final League total representing the best recorded for five years.

In fact, last season's tally has only been bettered once in the last ten years and that was in season 1976-77 when 82 more goals hit the nets.

Full marks to the free-scoring teams in the Fourth Division, who notched up 1,510 goals between them — the best total in the division for more than a decade.

Champions Sheffield United were the top scoring team in the League with 94 goals — 35 of them scored by the League's top marksman Keith Edwards. But Bradford, Colchester, Wigan and Bury all scored 80 or more.

Colchester's total of 82 represented an incredible increase of 37 on their tally for the previous season — the biggest increase shown by any team in the League.

And all credit to Colchester pair Kevin Bremner and Ian Allinson who, between them, scored more than half the team's total.

The Third Division total of 1,421 was 97 up on the previous season — Fulham setting the pace with 77 goals.

Craven Cottage star Gordon Davies was the division's top marksman with 24 League goals and Dean Coney weighed in with 13 to boost Fulham's total.

Oxford and Bristol Rovers showed the best individual increases — both notching 24 more goals than they did the previous season.

Andy Thomas (Oxford) with 14 and Bristol Rovers pair Archie Stephens and Paul Randall (both with 11) were the clubs' top marksmen.

The story was the same in Division Two — 99 more goals being scored last term in comparison to season 1980-81.

Damage

Champions Luton added 25 more goals to their tally of the previous season to notch 86 — Brian Stein (20) and Steve White (18) doing most of the damage to opposition defences.

But it was Watford's total of 76 that showed the biggest individual increase in the division — 26 more than they scored in '80-'81. Luther Blissett was their top marksman with 19 goals. John Barnes and Ross Jenkins notched 13 each.

Alas, the First Division failed to help the goals cause — the total of 1,173 being 55 down on the previous season.

Champions Liverpool were in free-scoring mood once more — beating their tally of the previous season by 18 to total 80 goals.

Ian Rush with 17 was their top League marksman and Terry McDermott boosted their tally with 14.

Incredibly, Notts County managed to score 12 more goals than they did in gaining promotion from Division Two the season before — totalling 61.

Iain McCulloch with 17 League goals was County's top marksman.

But for too many teams, the goals dried up last season and the biggest drop was suffered by Nottingham Forest, despite their £2 million strike partnership of Justin Fashanu and Ian Wallace.

Forest's total of 42 was 20 down on their tally for the previous season and not one of their players managed to get into double figures.

Wolves' scoring record was the worst in Division One. They managed just 32 compared to the 43 they notched the season before.

SUPER BLADES STAY SHARP!

SHEFFIELD United — a First Division club just six years ago — have begun the charge back to the top.

Backed by incredible support from their fans, they ended their first ever season in Division Four as champions.

And they clinched the title in super-sharp Blades' style with:

- The League's only unbeaten home record.
- The most League points (96).
- The most League wins (27).

Just for good measure, United striker Keith Edwards finished the season as the League's top scorer with an incredible 36 goals.

Over the next two pages, 'Match' pays tribute to their great season.

Right: United's Jeff King steals a moment of personal glory with the prized piece of silverware.

Below: Champions all! The victorious Sheffield United players celebrate with the Fourth Division Championship trophy.

SHEFFIELD United manager Ian Porterfield has issued a warning to his Fourth Division Championship winning side.

"Anyone who thinks the job at Bramall Lane is done after winning promotion shouldn't be here. Next season is going to be harder than the last one," he promises.

While his players basked in the sun after a long, successful season, Ian was still behind his desk plotting next season's Third Division campaign.

"I'm totally dedicated to getting this club back to the top flight, so my next aim has to be promotion from the Third Division.

"It was only six years ago that Sheffield United were in the First Division. We've got the potential, stadium and crowds to get back there.

"When the players report back for pre-season training, it will be my job to bring them back to earth. They've got to start all over again."

Last season was the second successive year that the former Sunderland star has led a side to a Championship victory. Before joining 'The Blades', he managed Rotherham to the Third Division trophy.

● 'Blades' manager Ian Porterfield.

His decision to take over ailing giants Sheffield United last season surprised many people. They'd just been relegated to the Football League basement and confidence was low.

"I led Rotherham to the Second Division for the first time in 13 years, but I was prepared to give up that high grade of football to take over at Sheffield.

"One of the main influences on my decision to move to Bramall Lane was the chairman Reginald Brealey.

"It's important to have a happy working relationship and I felt I could achieve that with the United chairman.

"When I first arrived at Bramall Lane, the atmosphere was unbelievable. There was a tremendous depression around the place after relegation.

"My first job was to breathe new life into the club and bring in new enthusiasm," says Ian, who made his name as a player by scoring the winning goal for Sunderland in the 1973 FA Cup Final against Leeds.

"It was also important that I got to know the players, so I took them to Scotland and Sweden pre-season. However good your facilities are, the important thing in a club is the playing staff."

Ian strengthened his side almost immediately after taking charge and splashed out £90,000 to bring highly-rated goalkeeper Keith Waugh from Peterborough and midfielder Paul Richardson from Stoke.

"It was important that we got off to a good start to the season, but it didn't happen that way. We won just two of our first five matches.

"We only lost four times in the League last season and two of those defeats came in that opening spell.

Look-out

"Five games into the season, I felt we needed a new striker so I went to Hull and bought Keith Edwards. He repaid me by scoring 35 League goals."

Even when things were going well for United, Ian was always on the look-out for new players and, mid-way through the season, he got midfielder, Jeff King from city neighbours Sheffield Wednesday on a free transfer and then paid out £100,000 for striker Colin Morris.

"Although Jeff came on a free, his signing was very important. He played down the left and Colin slotted in on the right.

"At the time, I felt it was important to get a couple of new faces in the side and both lads have done well for me.

"I don't like to single players out because promotion this season has been a team effort and all the lads have done well," says Ian.

"The championship is won over 10 months and it has been a tough season for everyone — especially this year with the terrible winter we had."

That winter brought its own special problems as Ian explains: "It was difficult to keep everyone interested and bubbling while we were having matches postponed."

History

Now the Fourth Division Championship is a piece of history for the highly-rated young manager. He's now working busily for next season.

He's already gone back to his old club Sunderland and signed midfielder Kevin Arnott on a free transfer. "I am always looking to improve my team," he says.

"Kevin was an apprentice when I was at Roker Park so I've known him since he was a boy. He's got a lot of ability and talent. It's up to me to make him realise it."

No review of United's season would be complete without mention of the fantastic support the club received throughout the campaign. The average home gate was 15,000!

"The supporters have been tremendous. They've played a very important part in our success," says Ian.

THE UP!

DIVISION ONE'S THE TARGET FOR SHEFFIELD UNITED

Above: The goal that was worth £6,000! United's Keith Edwards scores his second in the 4-0 home victory over Peterborough in May. It earned him £5,000 from Pepsi Cola as the first player to score 35 League goals and he got an extra £1,000 for finishing the season as the division's top scorer.*

Mystery man is named . . .

WELL, did you manage to name the 'mystery' man on the England team picture above?

When we first used the picture, our phones never stopped ringing with people asking for the identity of the player circled.

So we decided to run a competition in our May 29 issue giving £5 as a prize to the first correct entry pulled from the postbag.

And the lucky winner is J. Stockham of Chepstow, Gwent.

For those of you who didn't know, the answer was: former Middlesbrough player Willie Maddren.

Riddle time

I MADE my England debut against Switzerland in 1978. I was born on Merseyside but my first League club was Bury for whom I made almost 100 League appearances. I'm now with my third English club.

The answer to last week's 'Riddle Time' was: Celtic's Danny McGrain.

Don't miss next week's issue for a new riddle and the answer to this week's poser.

WIN

WIN the latest Subbuteo football game in another great FREE to enter Match Weekly competition.

To celebrate the World Cup Finals, Subbuteo and FIFA have combined to produce a special edition of this World famous football game.

The winner of our 'Spot the Ball' competition will win the game which includes two World Cup teams, a replica of the FIFA trophy, FIFA balls, pitch, line flags, two goals and match officials.

And we'll be giving away Subbuteo's brand new Indoor Edition to the runner-up!

The Indoor Edition is based on the American six-a-side game. The pitch is rigid and enclosed by walls, which makes it a really fast moving game.

TO ENTER: The football has been removed from this typical piece of Subbuteo action (see picture right). Use your skill and judgement to decide where you think the centre of the ball is and mark with a pen. A maximum of ten crosses are allowed.

A panel of judges will determine the position of the ball and the entrant whose crosses best correspond with the missing football will be the winner.

All entries should be sent to: Subbuteo Competition, Match Weekly, 14 Holkham Road, Orton Southgate, Peterborough PE2 0UF.

Entries must reach us by Friday, June 25.

Spurs pack 'em in . . . HOT LANE

SUPER Spurs showed soccer the way last season.

Their exciting, attacking brand of football took them within touching distance of four major trophies.

And the crowds flocked to savour their style.

Our exclusive survey shows that the total gate at White Hart Lane was up by almost 103,000 on the previous season.

And it proves that the so-called 'missing fans' will come back . . . if the football is entertaining.

Spurs increase was bettered only by Swansea who were enjoying First Division football for the first time in club history.

The 'Swans' packed in almost 106,000 extra fans and other First Division clubs doing their bit to halt the great soccer spectator drain were Notts County, Manchester City and Leeds.

Thirty-four clubs actually increased their total attendances — 14 of them in the Fourth Division.

And while last season's crowd totals were down by almost two million, the drop the previous season was higher by more than 700,000.

In the Second Division, eight clubs attracted extra support.

Champions Luton saw the biggest increase at the turnstiles and Watford, Rotherham, QPR, Newcastle, Barnsley, Oldham and Sheffield Wednesday all found more fans.

In Division Three, an extra 47,180 spectators turned up at Craven Cottage to watch Fulham and six other clubs showed increases — Oxford, Gillingham, Burnley, Carlisle, Wimbledon and Millwall.

The total attendances in Division Four were actually up by more than 300,000 on the previous season — Bournemouth, Bradford and champions Sheffield United making the biggest impact.

But for all the good news, it was a season of financial worry for most clubs.

European champions Aston Villa lost 144,412 fans and even Liverpool and Manchester United suffered decreases.

Crystal Palace of the Second Division fared worst of all — their total gate for the season being over 200,000 down on 1980-81.

And that means a loss of nearly half a million fans over the past two seasons at Selhurst Park.

Our exclusive tables tell their own story.

Frank Worthington's end-of-season goal flurry helped pull in the crowds for Leeds.

The GLENN HODDLE Column

The Spurs and England midfield maestro talks of the news that made him so glad . . . and the news that made him so sad. Don't miss his regular columns throughout the World Cup — only in 'Match'.

So happy! Dad-to-be Glenn gives his wife Anne a hug on hearing the news that she is expecting a baby later this year.

Daddy's delight

I'M going to be a dad and, right now, that makes me one of the happiest men in Spain!

My wife Anne is expecting our first baby in December and I'm more chuffed about that than anything else.

She's out in Spain, too, at the moment having flown out with the wives of Graham Rix and Kenny Sansom.

They've got a couple of kids so Anne will be able to get in some practice!

While they'll be at the games, we won't see them until England's involvement in the World Cup is over.

So, I hope the first time we meet up again is after the Final!

News of the baby caps what has been a great year for me.

Obviously, winning the FA Cup for the second year running was the crowning moment of my season with Spurs.

And then to be named in the England squad for the World Cup Finals was more great news.

Ironically though, Spurs' success in the FA Cup probably cost me the chance of making the line-up for England's opening game against France.

The fact that the Final went to a replay meant that I missed both the match against Holland and the clash with Scotland and I would have hoped to play in one of those games.

So my last chance to stake a claim came against Iceland the week before we flew out and it couldn't have gone better for me.

It was one of my best performances in a season which I consider to have been the best of my career so far.

Iceland were quite a good side but we should have won by a lot of goals.

I played in a central midfield role and, although I'm more used to playing on the right side, I've played in the middle for Spurs a few times this season and I'm just as happy in that position.

I didn't really see the Iceland game as a make-or-break match to decide whether or not I went to Spain because the boss knows what I can do, but it was nice to turn in a good performance.

It was still a relief when I got the phone call to say I had made the final 22.

By the time you read this, we may already have played our opener against France and I must say I didn't expect to be in the team that started the match.

With things going so well for the team that played Finland in the final warm-up match, it would have been very difficult for the boss to change the line-up.

He can only pick 11 players and everyone in the squad accepts that.

The spirit among the lads out here is fantastic and those players not picked to play will be right behind the team.

England's build-up to the Finals was superb — things couldn't have gone any better.

We were doing well in training and then making it happen on the park. I just hope it stays that way now we are in Spain.

There's only one cloud on the horizon for me at the moment and that is Spurs losing the talents of Ossie Ardiles and Ricky Villa.

It now looks certain that they will never play in England again because of our war with Argentina over the Falkland Islands.

I believe it's a real loss to our football and it's very saddening, but it's out of the hands of the players.

Ossie and Ricky proved to be two of the biggest successes of all the foreign players that have come over to England.

They made people want to see them play with their special brand of South American flair. They became better players for their experience in the English First Division and our own players learned so much from them.

When we said goodbye to Ossie after our FA Cup Semi-Final tie against Leicester, we never dreamed it was going to be the last time we saw him.

I just wish the two of them every success wherever they begin the new season.

Talk to you again soon . . .

GRAEME Souness, skipper of League Champions Liverpool, was the top player in the First Division last season.

The popular 'Match Weekly' columnist achieved an average mark of 7.37 over the season — based on ratings in our exclusive 'Match Facts' results service.

His consistency in the hub of Liverpool's ruthless machine proved a key factor as the 'Anfield Army' ground out victory after victory in a scintillating second half of the season.

Four Liverpool players figured in the top ten of our chart — underlining their power and dominance in a season which saw them collect their 13th League title and retain the League Cup.

Scotland boss Jock Stein will be hoping that midfield kingpin Graeme continues in the same consistent vein as the Scots attempt to recover their World Cup pride in Spain.

The other Liverpool players in the top bracket included Graeme's Scottish colleague Kenny Dalglish — last year's 'Matchman of the Year'.

This time, Kenny had to make do with fourth equal alongside England and Manchester City striker Trevor Francis.

Two other Anfield men in the top bracket are newcomers — top scorer Ian Rush and Irish imp Ronnie Whelan — who exploded into the big time last season with the force of meteorites.

But the man who pushed Graeme for top spot came from a side which spent most of the season at the bottom of the table.

Heroics

Despite the heroics of Northern Ireland goalkeeper Jim Platt, Middlesbrough face next season in the Second Division.

But at least Jim had the distinction of being the top 'keeper in the division.

In third place was another 'Match' columnist, England skipper Kevin Keegan, who was the division's top scorer with 26 League goals for Southampton.

West Ham skipper Billy Bonds, who missed the closing weeks of the season following a bout of jaundice, was the top defender, finishing ahead of his Everton opposite number Mike Lyons.

Steve's inspiration

SPURS' battling FA Cup Final hero Graham Roberts has been an inspiration to players like Lincoln City's 'Player of the Season' Steve Thompson (right).

Just three years ago, the two were playing against each other in a non-League match between Weymouth and Boston. Now they are both full-time professionals.

And central defender Steve admits: "Graham has done wonders for non-League players. He's given them hope that they can make the Football League grade."

Steve was 23-years-old when he decided to give up his promising job in newspaper advertising and risk a career in football.

And his decision has proved justified for, in only his second full season at Sincil Bank, Steve got the supporters' vote as their best player — despite missing a third of the season through injury.

"It's a tremendous honour for me," says Steve: "The start of the season was bleak because I was sidelined with a fracture of the shin. I only made my comeback in November."

The supporters' accolade has helped make up for the disappointment of missing out on promotion to the Second Division. Lincoln finished fourth behind promoted Fulham.

"It would have been great to have gone up again after winning promotion from the Fourth Division the year before," says Steve, who was signed from Boston for £15,000.

"It's going to be harder to get promotion next season. Last term we were a surprise packet and no-one really knew that much about us. This time they'll be better prepared."

Steve is a product of manager Colin Murphy's third successful sortie into non-League football and follows the signings of fellow central defender Trevor Peake and Tony Cunningham.

In fact, Steve wrested the supporters award from his best friend and fellow defender Trevor. The club skipper had won the trophy for the previous two seasons!

A 'Match Weekly' guide to who was voted 'Player of the Year' by the supporters in the Third Division... and we talk to two of the winners.

Glynn's sweet success

LIKE a classic racehorse, Doncaster's Glynn Snodin burst through in the last furlong to take his club's player of the season trophy.

The supporters' votes were updated after every game and, coming into the final straight, Glynn was neck and neck with fellow midfielder man Steve Lister.

But he took advantage of Steve's late run of bad form to clinch the award — success that was all the sweeter for finishing second in the previous two years.

"I knew it was close, but it's not something you think about before the start of a game," says Glynn.

"I had too much on my plate helping the lads fight off relegation to think about anything else. But lying in the bath at the end of the game, I used to wonder how the fans had rated me.

"The award means everything to me. To be recognised in this way by the people who pay your wages is something special.

"I was specially pleased because I hadn't started the season at all well and, in fact, missed about two months in all with a back injury.

"Funnily enough, I was scoring a few goals at that time. The manager encouraged me to push forward more from midfield and it paid off."

Rovers' fans must have wondered whether they were coming or going last season as their team went to the top of the table but then slipped away to the relegation zone after a disastrous Christmas and New Year.

"The break because of bad weather really hit us hard and we never recovered," says Glynn. "And we also had a lot of bad luck with injuries.

"But football's a funny game. Liverpool looked out of the Championship at that time yet they were there at the end of the season. We just went the other way."

26 MATCH WEEKLY

HAT-TRICK HEROES!

AN exclusive 'Match Weekly' guide to the League's hat-trick heroes in season 1981-82.

FIFTY-five hat-tricks were struck in the League last season . . . and most of them were scored in the First Division.

The total represents an increase of four on the season before.

This is the breakdown: Division One — 18; Division Two — 13; Division Three — 8; Division Four — 16.

Only five players achieved the hat-trick feat on more than one occasion — Cyrille Regis (West Brom), Clive Walker (Chelsea), Craig Madden (Bury), Robbie Cooke (Peterborough) and Eamon O'Keefe (Wigan) each notching two during the season.

Forest's top scorer Ian Wallace was the only player to score three goals in a game and still finish on the losing side when Birmingham ran out 4-3 winners on September 5.

Bob Latchford of Swansea scored the first hat-trick of the season in his side's 5-1 thrashing of Leeds on opening day.

And three players — Forest's Peter Davenport, Wrexham's Mick Vinter and Portsmouth's Jeff Hemmerman — shared the honour of hitting three on the final Saturday of the season.

Southampton had the most hat-tricks scored against them — conceding four from Paul Goddard (West Ham), Graham Roberts (Spurs), Alan Brazil (Ipswich) and Mark Hateley (Coventry).

And Peterborough and Wigan shared the honour of providing the most hat-tricks for their fans — Robbie Cooke (2) and Dave Syrett doing the damage for 'Posh' and Eamon O'Keefe (2) and Les Bradd achieving the feat for Wigan.

Of all the hat-tricks scored, only 15 were scored by players playing away from home — eight in Division One, five in Division Two and two in Division Four.

The table right gives you a complete check on every League hat-trick.

Free! Steve Kindon — victim of the Spring clean at Huddersfield.

AN exclusive Match Weekly guide to all the end of season free transfers in Divisions Three and Four.

BARGAIN

MOST of the 500 footballers 'kicked out' by the 92 League clubs at the end of the season will spend the next few weeks wondering and worrying whether they have any future in the game.

Contracts expire at the end of next month and it seems certain that a large proportion of those free transfer players will not be signing new ones for next season.

It's the biggest clear-out in soccer history as clubs make even more stringent economies in a desperate attempt to avoid the financial noose.

For many of the 240-odd players given the axe by clubs in the Third and Fourth Divisions, the signposts now lead to part-time football in non-League ... or for some, the dole queue.

Some clubs are in such dire straits that they have had to unload entire teams of players.

Crewe, for example, rock bottom of the Fourth Division last season, released no fewer than 12 players, including veteran goalkeeper Ken Mulhearn.

Halifax, another side who had to apply for re-election, parted company with 11, and Bury, who finished in the Fourth Division's top six, released ten.

Included in Bury's list was former Newcastle and Birmingham defender Pat Howard.

Huddersfield and Chester released most players in the Third Division with nine apiece.

Among the victims of the 'Spring clean' at Huddersfield were ex-Wolves and Burnley winger Steve Kindon and former Everton goalkeeper Andy Rankin.

And Huddersfield, who finished well down the table after starting the season as one of the promotion favourites, also released top scorer Peter Fletcher.

Chester, relegated to the Fourth Division, have not engaged former player-manager Alan Oakes as a player next season.

The former Manchester City stalwart was sacked by Chester earlier this year after making close on 800 League appearances in a distinguished career.

Even former international stars don't escape the axe.

Ex-Scotland and Manchester United winger Willy Morgan has left Fourth Division Blackpool, and promoted Carlisle have parted company with former Scotland midfielder player Tommy Craig.

Ex-Wales defender Rod Thomas, the former Derby, Swindon and Cardiff player, has gone from Newport, along with striker Alan Waddle who cost the Welsh club a record £80,000 from Swansea 17 months ago.

And Hugh Dowd, capped by Northern Ireland when with Glenavon, has been released by Billy Bremner's Doncaster.

Bobby Kerr, a folk hero in the North East after leading Sunderland to their shock FA Cup triumph over Leeds nine years ago, may have played his last League game after leaving Hartlepool.

Oh brother! Keith Kennedy is set free

AFTER a season in which his younger brother Alan collected another Championship medal with Liverpool, Keith Kennedy finds himself on the soccer scrapheap.

It must be the ultimate in contrasts of family fortunes with Alan signing a new two-year contract at Anfield, and 30-year-old Keith getting a free transfer from Fourth Division Bury after nine years' service.

"It's a bit of a dampener, but Alan is at the top of the tree and, at the moment, I'm at the bottom," says Keith.

"But I'm only just 30 and I feel that I have at least two more years to offer a League club."

"I want to stay in full-time football, preferably in the North-West area because I am going into business. Going part-time will be a last resort."

Keith was not totally surprised by Bury's decision to release him after more than 500 League and Cup appearances.

"I suppose I suspected that last season would be my last when I was granted a testimonial because I wasn't due one until next year," says Keith, who came to Bury from Newcastle.

Free! Keith Kennedy of Bury — such contrasting fortunes to those of his brother Alan at Liverpool.

"I was under a certain amount of pressure last season because of my involvement in testimonial events, but I don't think it affected my game."

"The manager told me that I was one of his most consistent players, but because of economies, I suppose I expected that I wouldn't be retained."

Free! Chester's Alan Oakes — close on 800 games under his belt.

BASEMENT

'A blow to my pride' — Jim Lumby

"A BLOW to my pride." That was how Mansfield's top scorer Jim Lumby described his shock release by the struggling Fourth Division club.

Although Mansfield just avoided the ignominious position of having to seek re-election, Jim collected 14 League goals in his first full season with the Midlands club.

"Considering we struggled for most of the season and finished fifth from bottom, I don't think I did badly with 17 League and Cup goals," says Jim, who joined Mansfield from Tranmere for £50,000 in January last year.

"The decision was a blow to my pride because I believe I am always capable of scoring goals.

"The excuse was that Mansfield had to release a lot of players because of economic measures and one has to accept that.

"But I suppose that if we had finished fifth from top instead of fifth from bottom, I would have been retained."

Now Jim, who has scored 86 League goals in spells with Grimsby, Scunthorpe, Carlisle, Tranmere and Mansfield, may return to non-League football and resume his role in the family carpet business.

Jim, who had non-League experience with Boston United, Gainsborough and Brigg Town after leaving Grimsby, has received a couple of offers from League clubs.

"I've had two offers from League clubs and one from a non-League club," he says.

"I'm going to wait a while before making a decision but I may be better off financially by going part-time and returning to my brother-in-law's carpet business."

PETER BODAK TALKS ABOUT

'IT'S LIKE

PETER Bodak — snapped up on a free transfer by Manchester United — claims: "I knew my days at Coventry were numbered as soon as Dave Sexton took over as manager.

"He just didn't like my style and it soon became obvious that I didn't fit into his plans.

"In the end, getting a free transfer from Highfield Road was the best thing that ever happened to me.

"It's always been my ambition to play for Manchester United but I could hardly believe it when I discovered they were interested.

"I felt like someone who had just won the pools!"

Looking back on his last season with Coventry, Peter says:

"I didn't enjoy it. I only played 15 first team games and spent most of the time training with the reserves.

"I'm an out-and-out winger, but the manager wanted me to be more defensive and help out in midfield. I didn't mind doing it some of the time, but Dave Sexton expected me to do it permanently."

Relations between the manager and his talented winger have always looked stormy and last season the youngster angrily slapped in a transfer request after being dropped from the side.

Says Peter: "The manager said I wasn't working hard enough and I disagreed. I felt I deserved my place. I let my head drop and didn't deserve to get back in the team.

"It was a difficult time for me, but my family and friends were very good. They helped pull me through.

"I never lost confidence in my ability. I knew I was good enough to play in the First Division.

"I forced my way back into the side with some good performances in the reserves, but whenever things went badly for the first team, I felt I got a lot of the blame.

"Although I was sick when I heard I'd got a free transfer, I was relieved that the club didn't want a fee for me. It would have been more difficult for me to have got fixed up with a price on my head."

Peter didn't have to wait long before he found new employers. He'd been on the list barely a week when he got the call from United manager Ron Atkinson.

Peter explains: "I was at home when the phone rang. The person on the other end didn't introduce himself. He simply asked which club in the world I would most like to play for.

"I replied 'Manchester United' and then Ron introduced himself properly and told me to come up and see him.

"I couldn't believe it. It's always been my ambition to play for United. When I heard they were interested, I felt as though I'd won the pools.

"As I drove into Old Trafford, I noticed the special atmosphere. Even though it was the close season, there were still a lot of supporters about the place. You never get that at Coventry.

"I seemed to hit it off with the manager straight away. He has the same sense of humour as myself.

"I didn't need any persuading to join them. I'd already made up my mind that they were the club for me and I signed that day."

Peter knows that he faces the toughest battle of his career to break into the star-studded Manchester United line-up, but he's looking forward to the challenge.

"I know I'm not guaranteed a place in the team, but the manager has promised that if I play well, he'll give me a chance in the side.

"It's going to be very difficult for me to get into the team, but I've been used to fighting for my place at Coventry.

"I won't be overawed by the big-names at Old Trafford. I'm looking forward to meeting them and training alongside them.

"I love the big-time and I believe my game will improve at Old Trafford. The prospect of playing for a world famous club really excites me.

"I always seem to play my best football in front of big crowds and, if I can break into the United set-up, I'll have the best stage in the Football League.

"The television cameras are always at Old Trafford and the club gets fantastic support. It will be so different to playing in front of 10,000 at Highfield Road."

While no-one has ever doubted Peter's ability on the wing, there have been doubts about his Left: Britain's most expensive player Bryan Robson — cost-nothing Peter Bodak could be lining up alongside him at Old Trafford next season.

Pen pals

I WOULD like a male or female pen pal who supports Manchester United or Oxford. Catherine Larkin, 59 River Road, Fountainbleau, Randburg, 2194, South Africa.

My hobbies are football and cricket and my favourite teams are Liverpool and Lincoln. I would like a pen pal, male or female, who supports any team. Stephen Simpson (16), 99 Chaucer Drive, Lincoln.

I AM a 16-year-old Southampton supporter and I'd like a pen pal who supports the Saints and lives in the Southampton area. Carole Thompson, 14 Kirkfield Lane, Thorner, Leeds.

I AM a 15-year-old West Ham supporter and my favourite player is Ray Stewart. I would like a girl pen pal, aged 14 or 15, who lives in the North and supports any team. David Allam, 1 Scott Road, Bishop's Stortford, Herts.

I support St Mirren and Nottingham Forest and I would like a pen pal from overseas, aged 15, who likes pop music. Kenneth Kelly (15), 24 Bargarron Drive, Gallowhill, Paisley, Renfrewshire, Scotland.

HIS SHOCK MOVE TO UNITED WINNING THE POOLS!'

'A MISTAKE TO RELEASE ME ...'

— PETER BODAK

TRICKY winger Peter Bodak, scorer of one of the goals of the season in Coventry's 3-1 FA Cup victory at Manchester City, hopes that piece of individual brilliance will help him find another club.

It was his superb fifty yard dash and delicate chip over England's Joe Corrigan which clinched the tie for Coventry, but he plans to put one over on his old side next season.

He feels they have made a mistake in giving him a free transfer, and he aims to prove it.

"It came as a real surprise to be given a free because only a few months ago, when I went on the transfer list, they were asking quite a bit of money for me," says 20-year-old Peter, who made only nine First Division appearances last season.

"At that time Sunderland were interested, but nothing came of it.

"I'm very disappointed because I would have liked to have stayed at Coventry, but I don't think I ever fitted in with manager Dave Sexton's plans. He had to select me when I was playing well in the reserves, but as soon as anything went wrong, I was out again. "I still regard myself as a First Division player, and I hope that television goal will show clubs what I am capable of.

"Several clubs, including one First Division team, have expressed some interest, but I'll just have to wait and see what develops over the next few weeks.

"It's been an ambition of mine to play in America, but I haven't received any offers this year. Maybe they will come in the future."

Right: Peter Bodak — he feels Coventry have made a mistake in letting him go.

attitude, but he's quick to defend himself.

"There's nothing wrong with my attitude. If I'm treated well I'll give my all — whether I'm in the first team or the reserves. It's only when people try to take advantage of me that I can be difficult."

Peter is looking forward to meeting up with his old Coventry team-mates in the First Division next season.

"I'd love to play in that game, but I don't believe I've got anything to prove to Coventry. They know that I can play.

"I have left some great friends at Highfield Road and I'd love to see them do well next season, but I believe they need one or two more experienced players before they'll be in a challenging position."

Before Manchester United came in with their dream offer, Peter had already received a number of enquiries — including one from the First Division.

"I never had any doubts that I'd get fixed up with a team. My only worry was that I'd have to go somewhere I didn't really want to.

"In the end, United stepped in so quickly that I didn't have to worry," he says.

Peter, who joined Coventry straight from school, only made just over 30 League appearances for the Midlands club. Even so, his goal-scoring potential is well known.

Last season, millions of television viewers watched as he scored one of the goals of the season against Manchester City in an FA Cup-tie at Maine Road.

The talented winger dashed nearly the full length of the pitch before chipping the ball over England 'keeper Joe Corrigan and helping his side to a 3-1 win.

But, says Peter: "I don't believe that was my best of the season. I scored a better one on my return to the first team against Everton when I chipped the ball over Nev Southall.

"I love scoring spectacular goals. I like to emulate my hero George Best, who scored some crackers in his time."

SALUTE GENERAL LEE...

WHAT a great season it was for Liverpool's skilful and industrious midfielder, Sammy Lee.

Even though Sammy had to compete with the likes of Graeme Souness, Terry McDermott, Ronnie Whelan and —earlier in the season — Ray Kennedy, little Sammy refused to be overshadowed by more celebrated Anfield midfield stars.

He won a League Cup winner's medal and played a big part in Liverpool's Championship glory, and Sammy deserves all the success he gets. He works hard, never gives up and is a credit to the game.

I think Sammy is a future England captain.

Anthony Timlin, Dibrane, Leeds.

Sammy Lee — future England captain, says Anthony Timlin.

STAR GALLERY

"An entertaining player who scores goals — that's Barnsley striker Trevor Ayloott," says Elspeth Gilfillan (10) of Barnsley.

"It's a pity that Gordon McQueen has been plagued by injury this season — he should be a Scotland regular," according to Anthony Fitzpatrick (13), of Chorleywood, Herts.

Left: Man. Utd's British record signing, Bryan Robson is: "One of the best midfielders in the country," according to David Beavers, of Haydon Bridge, Northumberland.

COME IN NUMBER NINE!

MOST people's idea of the traditional British forward is a large strapping six-footer famed for his heading and a mighty shot.

Of the few that are around today, those that spring readily to mind are Peter Withe, Mick Robinson, David Cross, Bob Latchford and Andy Gray.

But I believe the Great British centre-forward is a dying breed. Clubs are relying on their goals mainly from the ground specialists — players who rely a lot on shrewd positioning, knife-edge reflexes and a quick turn of pace for their goals, unlike the big, bustling types who place a lot of emphasis on strength and aggression.

To support my argument, nine of the First Division's ten leading scorers are ground specialists with West Brom's Cyrille Regis the odd man out. Even in Spain this summer, the only true centre-forward fielded by the three home countries taking part will be Peter Withe, Joe Jordan and Burnley's Billy Hamilton. Mark Anderson, Sunderland.

TAKE CHARGE

ASTON Villa's magnificent European Cup win, with their reserve goalkeeper playing for 80 minutes, underlines the strength of the game at club level in this country.

Yet while our club sides have won the world's greatest club competition six years in a row, England have achieved little or nothing and have been most lucky to reach the World Cup Final stages. A Paisley, a Clough, a Saunders or even a Barton is sadly needed to take charge of our national team.

Geoffrey Allman, Essington, Wolverhampton.

Unbeatable

HERE is my team of O's which I think is unbeatable:

O'Keefe (Torquay); O'Neill (Leicester); O'Neill (Chesterfield); O'Leary (Arsenal); O'Neill (Norwich) capt.; O'Brien (Notts County); O'Donnell (Bournemouth); O'Callaghan (Stoke); O'Keefe (Wigan); O'Neill (Cambridge); O'Callaghan (Ipswich). Andrew Jeffrey, Tasburgh, Norwich.

Golden Goof

I KNOW that, until their relegation at the end of the season Leeds United had spent a long time in the First Division, but I didn't realise it was as long as this cutting from my local paper indicated; Declan Mannion, Rosbrien, Co. Limerick.

Allan Clarke, whose goals guided Leeds United to some of the highest honours in football during the past decade, suffered the agony of frustration and disappointment as his managerial qualities failed to keep the club in the first division. He was in the Potteries last night to watch Stoke defeat West Bromwich 3-0—a result which kept the home team up but sent Leeds tumbling to the second division after enjoying continuous membership in Division One since 1064.

Chelsea are on the right lines

WELL done John Neal!

You did a great job in your first season in charge at Chelsea.

Although we didn't get promotion to the First Division, we beat FA Cup Finalists Queen's Park Rangers and pulled off one of the shock results of the season when we beat League Champions Liverpool.

Those results show that the former Middlesbrough manager is assembling the right team to challenge for the First Division next season. Justin Garrett (13), London E1/4.

THREE CHEERS

IT seems that the three points for a win idea has paid off. When it was introduced at the start of the season I was against it, but after seeing some of the high-scoring games this season, I now realise that the Football Association were correct in changing the ruling.

The amount of high scoring games this season has been amazing especially at Southampton, Ipswich and West Ham, where there have been an abundance of 3-2, 4-3 and 3-3 results.

RANGERS ROBBED

I'M outraged after watching the FA Cup Final replay between Tottenham and QPR because I feel Rangers should get a place in Europe and, from now on, all FA Cup runners-up should go into Europe. All they get are losers' medals and they'll have to start all over again next year.

Michael Rodgers, Co. Antrim, N. Ireland.

● QPR won the respect of football followers all over the world for their plucky display, and that's worth more than their losers' medals. If the FA Cup losers go into Europe, then so should the League Cup runners-up. There would be no end to it. You're sent off!

Leave soccer alone!

I'M outraged at all the recent talk of Sin Bins, Summer football and an English Premier Division. Even though I think they are good suggestions I would prefer our football to stay the way it is.

What if we do have fixture back-logs through bad weather? We've had this system for more than one hundred years so why change?

Let's keep English football as it is and not introduce new ideas.

Ian Humphreys, Manchester
● IT'S because we've stayed the way we are that we've been in the international wilderness for so many years. A Premier Division should have been introduced long ago to give more time for international get-togethers. You're booked.

BINGHAM BLUNDER

I'M outraged that Norman Whiteside of Manchester United is going to the World Cup with Northern Ireland. Billy Bingham should select players because they are of international standard, not just because they are hitting the headlines.

Stephen Poxon, Gosport, Hants.

● PERHAPS it's because Norman Whiteside has the potential to become an international star that he's hit the headlines. This young man needs all the help he can get on his road to success and can do without knocks from the likes of you. You're booked.

Boring England

I WAS outraged at England's style of play when they beat Scotland 1-0 at Hampden Park. After their lucky goal, they pulled everyone back and defended the lead.

This sort of play keeps the fans away and England were guilty of being very negative. The only reason they defended was so they could go off to Spain calling themselves

British Champions, but they're only champions at playing boring football.

Alan Knight, West Lothian, Scotland

● PERHAPS you're forgetting that England lost their two strikers through injury for nearly half the game. It was surely up to the Scots to be positive and I didn't see a lot of that from them. You're booked for being so biased.

● The figures in brackets indicate placings and totals of goalkeepers who played in the Third Division the previous season. None of the goalkeepers used by Huddersfield achieved the qualification figure of 20 games.

THE first column in the table shows the number of games played.

The second column shows the number of goals conceded, and the third column is the average number of minutes' play between each goal.

For instance, Plymouth's Geoff Crudgington conceded, on average, one goal every 74 minutes.

Only League matches count. Goalkeepers must have played 20 games.

LINCOLN may have been pipped for promotion from the Third Division, but their young goalkeeper, David Felgate, proved to be the 'Top Stopper' in the division.

And it's the second successive season that the Welshman has topped a table.

The previous season he was the top goalkeeper in the Fourth Division when Lincoln achieved promotion.

Last term, he conceded just 37 goals in 43 League matches for an average of 105 minutes between each goal... and that's 59 minutes down on his Fourth Division campaign!

Clear

But his record last season was sufficient to keep him well clear of Alan Stevenson, the ever-present goalkeeper of champions Burnley.

Alan let in 45 goals in 46 matches and was obviously a key factor in the return of the Lancashire side to the Second Division after a two-season absence.

In third spot was Preston's loanee 'keeper Martin Hodge from Everton.

And that was a considerable achievement for the ex-Plymouth 'keeper who last year fought off serious injury and illness to save his career.

Brentford's David McKellar maintained his consistency, finishing joint fourth, after ending the previous season in sixth place.

RAY WILKINS

ENGLAND 1 BELGIUM 1 European Championship, Turin, Italy, June 12th, 1980

England's performances in the 1980 European Championships in Italy provided little cause for celebration.

A draw with Belgium, defeat at the hands of Italy and victory over Spain meant we failed to qualify for the Final in Rome.

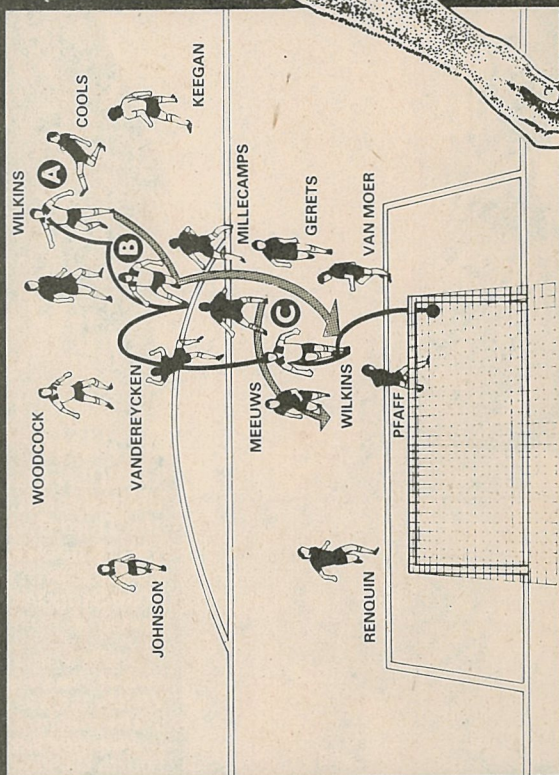

But for Manchester United's Ray Wilkins the tournament produced a moment - and a goal - that he will treasure always.

It came 20 minutes into our opening game with Belgium in Turin. Midfielder Ray relived the seconds that caused ecstasy among the England players as he said:

"Trevor Brooking made a good run down the left and when his cross came in it was headed out in my direction by Belgian defender Walter Meeuws.

"I chested it down and flicked it up on my right foot as three orange shirts came at me. With goalkeeper Jean-Marie Pfaff coming out I thought about clouting it, but as the ball bounced I kept my head and decided to lob him.

"As I fell away I lifted the ball over the keeper and into the top corner. It was only my second goal for England and a real bonus. You could say it was one of my best," cracked Ray.

WEEKLY'S
TWELVE

Jan Ceulemans
BELGIAN RAIDER HUNTS GLORY

ENGLAND will need no reminding of the striking power of Belgium's powerful raiding winger Jan Ceulemans should they clash in the later stages of the World Cup Finals.

It was his stunning equaliser that cost England victory over Belgium in Turin during the 1980 European Championships.

And it began England's sad demise from a tournament they had high hopes of winning... whilst at the same time spurring Belgium's superb run to the Final.

Though they lost to West Germany, they grew up in international stature and, from being an unknown, Ceulemans rose to become an overnight star.

Now he is aiming to add a bit of World Cup glory to his European Championship runners-up medal.

"It will be difficult for us because we are not the unknown underdogs we were in 1980. Now everyone knows we are runners-up in Europe," says the Bruges skipper.

"But we shall be hard to beat again and we can rely on the same team strengths. And we are all more experienced now."

His impact in Italy two years ago can be measured by the fact that AC Milan tried to lure him from Belgium before they signed Manchester United's Joe Jordan.

But Ceulemans decided to stay in Belgium, where he has played all his professional football.

His striking partner in the Belgian attack is Erwin Vandenberg, who is one of his best friends back in his home town of Lierse.

Between them, they were responsible for nine of the 12 goals Belgium scored on their way to becoming the first European side to qualify for Spain after the hosts.

It is Belgium's first appearance in the Finals since 1970, which is another good reason why Ceulemans wants to hit the world with his pace, power and finishing.

"I'm sure we are able to play as well, if not better, than in 1980. We shall be out for goals and victories again."
